

A Lockdown Story

One morning when a boy called Leighlord got up and had his breakfast his mum said to him he had to stay indoors because of coronavirus. People all over the world was going out and panic buying so they could protect themselves from the virus. As I went to the shop there was nothing left on hand sensitiser and toilet tissue shelves. I went home put Mums stuff away and told her there was no toilet roll left or hand sensitiser, she said "oh my gosh"
