

Lockdown in the eyes of a cat

Hello I'm a cat, my name is Max and I love cat treats. Some odd reason my humans won't leave the house. This is annoying, my humans are doing some things on their weird devices and talking. I'm finding it hard to sleep hearing them communicate through them speaking things. 2 months later, the humans are not leaving. I got no alone time at least there not on the bed because I need my beauty sleep. When the humans are doing whatever they do I want cuddles but when I'm sleeping they want cuddles that is so mean. It's like they done love me anymore. 5 months later, finally they don't stay in this building all day, they were driving me bonkers. They didn't need me until all of the good was gone. I'm so glad I can have the building all to myself some times.
